EXT. SOUTH CENTRAL STREET - DAWN

Spray cans hiss.

A mural of Young and Baby blooms over a corner wall while the paint still drips.

Candles already crowd the sidewalk beneath Hot Shot's.

Church stands half a block away with coffee he forgot to drink.

A BARBERSHOP OLD HEAD walks up beside him.

OLD HEAD

They saying your whole line cursed.

CHURCH

People say anything before breakfast.

OLD HEAD

Nah.

This one got shape.

Three dead in days?

Either somebody snitching or somebody cleaning.

Church looks at the mural.

Baby's painted eyes look more disappointed than sad.

OLD HEAD

Word outside got half the block saying Jamal.

Other half saying one of y'all talking to somebody with paper.

CHURCH

Who told you that?

60.

OLD HEAD

Everybody.

Church hates that answer because the street been right too often lately.
