ROLE: Older Woman

SCENE: INT. APARTMENT ABOVE KING LIQUOR - DAY

INT. APARTMENT ABOVE KING LIQUOR - DAY

A chain latch stays on the door.

An OLDER WOMAN peers through the crack at Church.

OLDER WOMAN

I already talked to police.

CHURCH

I'm not police.

OLDER WOMAN

I peeped that.

That's why I'm opening it this little.

Church takes that.

CHURCH

You were in the window.

She stiffens.

OLDER WOMAN

You were in the car across the street.

That lands harder than he wants it to.

CHURCH

You see the black car before it pulled in?

OLDER WOMAN

I saw one man walk the lot twenty minutes early.

Baseball cap.

Dark hoodie.

He looked up at the dead camera twice.

Church leans in a little.

CHURCH

You know him?

61.

OLDER WOMAN

No.

But he knew exactly what wasn't working.

She starts to close the door.

OLDER WOMAN

And next time, don't sit there and watch people die.

Church catches the shame and lets it hit.

CHURCH

There better not be a next time.

The door closes.

CHURCH (V.O.)

That lady gave me two things.

Proof the hit got scoped first, and one more reason not to miss again.
